

Allenstown Public Library Materials Donation Policy

The Allenstown Public Library accepts donations of books and other materials provided they are in good condition. The Library retains the authority to accept or reject donations with the understanding that the same standards of selection are applied to gifts and donations as to materials acquired by purchase.

Donations become the sole property of the library, and the Library's staff makes all decisions as to the use, housing, and final disposition of donations. Materials that are not accepted can be donated to Discovery Books via the donation bin in the library parking lot at any time. The Library does not evaluate or appraise gift materials for tax purposes.
